STATEMENT - On language abuses in exchanges between Cameroonians, especially on social networks

My attention has been drawn to the persistence of language abuse by some of our compatriots, particularly on social networks, despite my repeated and unambiguous condemnation of hateful, tribalistic, contemptuous or degrading language and my exhortations to express disagreements in a civil manner.

I reiterate that any denunciation must be made without contempt, and that contradiction by facts and/or reasoned argumentation must be the preferred weapon to express disagreements or to subdue the opponent. While I understand certain angers, feelings of frustration, or even betrayal, I believe that one can express one's opinion firmly without insults.

Any author of insulting, slanderous or, worse still, tribalistic remarks against a compatriot, whether a member of the Cameroon Renaissance Movement or not, is unworthy of the National Resistance, is hereby firmly disavowed and cannot in any way speak in my name.
